HARVARD UNIVERSITY

A ROLL OF HONOR

OF HARVARD MEN WHO HAVE GIVEN THEIR LIVES FOR LIBERTY AND DEMOCRACY
IN THE WAR AGAINST GERMANY

Manus haec inimica Tyrannis

PRINTED FOR THE HARVARD MEMORIAL SOCIETY

CAMBRIDGE
HARVARD UNIVERSITY PRESS

1920

THIS list, corresponding to the chronological record of the Honor Roll compiled for the Harvard Memorial Society and standing in the entrance hall of the Widener Library, is intended to include the names of all Harvard men who died in the military and naval service of the United States and of the Allies, and in the several relief organizations operating abroad, such as the Ambulance Service, the Y. M. C. A., and the Red Cross. It also includes the names of a few men who died after being discharged from service, from causes clearly traceable to injuries or disabilities incurred in service. It is based on the records of the Harvard War Record Committee and on correspondence with relatives and friends of the men.

An examination of the list will show that, of the 363 men recorded here, 52 died serving in the armies of France or England, and 32 before the United States entered the War; and it should be remembered that many of those who died in the American service had previously been enrolled under other flags in the Ambulance Corps, the Foreign Legion, the Lafayette Squadron and elsewhere.

The present list doubtless still contains errors, which it is hoped those who notice them will kindly correct by sending word to

WILLIAM C. LANE,
President Harvard Memorial Society.

*What hath he lost that such great grace hath won?
Young years for endless years, and hope unsure
Of fortune's gifts for wealth that still shall dure:
Oh, happy race with so great praises run!*
